EDWARDS GUILTY; CAUGHT BY CARROLL

Fayette County Legislator
Star Witness in Case
This Morning.

TWO OTHER CHARGES MADE

Two Counts of Burglary and One of Carrying Concealed Weapons All Result in Convictions Today—Capers Case Still On.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 6.—Charged with burglary on two indictments, and carrying concealed weapons, Frank Edwards, the negro captured by Hon. J. B. Carroll at Dunbar on the night of July 16, was tried in the large court room this morning. Squire A. C. Duncan is the prosecutor in the last and one of the burglary charges, Dominick D. Philippo appearing against Edwards on the second charge of robbery. Edwards was convicted. J. B. Carroll, the first witness related the manner in which Edwards was arrested. On hearing a noise on the first floor, an investigation resulted in finding a dining room window opened. Securing his revolver and the assistance of his son, they started to search the premises. Edwards was soon running down the street and was ordered to halt. They approached him, keeping him covered with their revolvers. When searched by the son, a watch, knife, pair of suspenders and some money were found. The watch and knife were identified later as having been stolen from the home of Dominick D. Philippo the same night. The son of Mr. Carroll told the same story on his father, adding that he was the first to see Edwards going down the street. Squire A. C. Duncan testified to Mr. Carroll coming to his home about 4 o'clock on the morning of July 16th. He escorted the negro to the kitchen and searched him, finding six one dollar bills, a pair of suspenders, and a quantity of cartridges. Later he said he took Edwards shoes to the Carroll home, measured the tracks in the ground, under the window that was found open, finding the sizes exactly the same. While searching the ground in this vicinity Mr. Carroll pointed out the place where he had caught the man. At the same time both discovered a revolver lying in the flower bed. H. S. Anderson, the Dunbar policeman was called on the Philippo case. The only thing he knew about the case was what Edwards had confessed to him. He said the defendant stated that he did not enter any of the houses but a companion, Charles Washington, went inside while he stayed outside as a guard. The colored man, he said, got the watch and knife from the D. Philippo house and that was all he got from the robbery. Anderson said Edwards asked if the court would be any easier with him if he confessed. On being told that they might, he told the above story. D. Philippo, a stonecutter, told of the robbery at his home during the night of July 15-16. An entrance was made through a kitchen window in his home, it being necessary to put a chair on top of a bucket in order to climb through the opening. He heard the intruder and saw him run out the door. That it was a black man was all he could say, being unable to positively identify Edwards as the man. Attorney Edward D. Brown placed his client, Edwards, on the stand for the defense. He denied making a confession to Anderson, or entering the Carroll or D. Philippo homes. The negro charged Squire Duncan with getting cartridges of the kind found in his pockets and saying that he found them on his person. He denied having a revolver. Edwards said Duncan made him hand over his shoes, took them to the Carroll home, under the tracks under the window and then brought them back. The defendant said he did not remember serving time in the county house, but had served for shooting craps. "I never shot anything larger than a bird," he said. His birthplace was Harper's Ferry, Scars on his head were explained by saying that he was injured in Pittsburgh. He said he had lived in Conneltsville for the last six years, working as a hod carrier. The contractor's name he could not remember. His presence in Dunbar on the night of his arrest he said was because he had been visiting at Montague's house and had missed the car. They had been drinking. The case occupied the greater part of the morning. Assistant District Attorney George Patterson acted for the prosecution. At the conclusion of the testimony the case went to the jury without argument. Judge Van Swearingen thought the negro guilty on all three indictments. A verdict of guilty was reached in less than five minutes.

ROOSEVELT WILL FIGHT FOR POLICY.

To Battle for Federal Control in Conservation Congress.

A ROW MAY BE PRECIPITATED

States' Rights Advocates Are Strong and May Resist Attack of Colonel on "Easily Corrupted Legislatures." Hearty Welcome Extended.

United Press Telegram.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 6.—Primed for a big fight in behalf of Federal control of water power sites on the "public domain," Colonel Theodore Roosevelt arrived today to attend the National Conservation Congress. He intended to assume a pacific attitude regarding the squabble but has now shifted and intends to fight for his policy. The speech of President Taft outlined briefly the fight between the partisans of State and Federal control, concluding by stating he would present both schemes to Congress. There is probably no question in connection with conservation that Roosevelt takes a firmer stand. He objects strongly to placing power sites in the control of "easily debauched legislatures." States' rights advocates are making a strong showing in the Congress here and trouble is expected when the Colonel arrives. Governor Everhart headed the reception committee which received the Colonel. After breakfast he reviewed the Spanish War veterans from the capitol at St. Paul. He will attend the congress about noon. Roosevelt was given a hearty reception in both St. Paul and Minneapolis.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The hearing of Dr. Hawley Crippen and Miss Ethel Leach, charged with the murder of Belle Elmore, Crippen's actress wife, whose body was found floating in the Thames, began in the Bow street police court today. Both prisoners appeared in greatly improved spirits. Thousands waited for hours outside the court room but none was admitted except representatives of the press and those connected with the case. Travers Humphreys, representing the crown, opened the case against the prisoners. He said an examination of the remains of the body showed plainly the marks of a recent operation. The crown must prove the remains of those of Belle Elmore. Solicitors Arthur Newton and J. H. Wolfer, appeared for Crippen and Miss Leach. The Dunbar township schools opened yesterday morning with an enrollment of 2,200 and the enrollment of several of the schools has not been reported. This is a substantial increase over the enrollment of last year. Seventy-five students from Vanderbilt, Dawson, Lower Tyrone, township, Franklin township and Dunbar township are enrolled in the High School. The Dunbar township schools are among the best in the county, especially the High School. All teachers were at work and are eager to do their part toward making the year one of the most successful ones in the history of the township schools. Many of the pupils were eager to get to work and by the first of next week it is expected that the attendance will be nearly 2,500. Labor Day interfered somewhat with the attendance on the opening day. There are sixteen pupils in the graduating class. The length of the term for the graded schools is eight months and that of the High School nine months. One new room was added to the graded school at Leaning No. 1, owing to the crowded condition of the schools. There are 75 teachers in the township schools.

Will Buy Music for Two Bands; Concerts Later

Secretary J. Fred Kurtz of the Chamber of Commerce, stated today that these instrumental in raising funds for the band stand would be consulted before any action is taken in the matter. Mr. Kurtz believes the life of the band stand would be shortened fully six months were it erected at this time. "Unless there is opposition to the suggestion," he said today, "the erection of the stand will be deferred until next spring. In the meantime, we will take part of the money subscribed and buy music for the Tenth Regiment and West Side bands, that they may have a repertoire of new music to spring on an unsuspecting public when the concerts begin next year. Under the agreement with the School Board concerts are not to be given Sunday or Wednesday evenings.

Hot Wave Hits Coke Region and Folks Sweeter

General Humidity took possession of the coke region yesterday and continued on the job today. The weather since then has been decidedly warm and at times sweltering hot. Yesterday afternoon the mercury climbed well into the eighties and at 6 o'clock was still hovering around 83. This morning at 8 o'clock the temperature was 75, which is unusually high for that hour. The shower which fell about 11 o'clock seemed only to intensify the heat. The river is falling again, after rising steadily for almost a week. It dropped a few points over night.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—Two thousand cheered President Taft when he arrived in the Northwestern Station today en route from St. Paul to Beverly Hills breakfasted at the Congress Hotel and addressed a delegation of Chicago's Commercial Association. Many callers tried to see the President but were dismissed by Secretary Norton. President Taft's escort aimed to avoid the crowds and secure quiet. Secretary Norton will sit at the speakers' table at the Roosevelt banquet Thursday. A burglar visited the apartment of Joseph O'Brien had a fruitless chase last evening for a party of youngsters who made a raid on the ice cream supply at Pritchard's restaurant. The boys had already stolen one freezer and part of another one when discovered. The police were notified but the boys managed to make a getaway before they could be captured. The ice cream had been left out under the establishment and in the darkness near the Pennsylvania depot the boys were working unseen. They were detected, however. The police are still working on the case and arrests are expected. A NEW DOCKET. A new docket has been introduced at police court by Clerk A. O. Bixler. It is a book for recording the prisoners of constables. The new scheme was evolved in order that the borough can make correct collections of costs from the constables for keeping prisoners. The borough makes a charge of 50 cents for each prisoner held for constables of justice of the peace outside the borough. Presbyterian Church Session. A session of the first Presbyterian church was held last evening and plans were made for the work of the coming year were discussed. There was a good attendance. It was stated this morning no definite action regarding the option held on the church was taken. Fairmont Fair Opens. The Fairmont fair opened yesterday with good feeling and a big attendance. ## THE BAND STAND IS GIVEN HOME.

School Board Finally Votes to Grant a Site.

LONG SESSION: LAST NIGHT

Devoted to Routine Matters, Including Discussion of Bond Sale—Special Meeting on Bond Sale Scheduled Thursday Evening.

United Press Telegram.

The School Board was in session about three hours last night. The session was a drab one, totally devoid of interest save in rare spots when things livened up. But as a whole, it was dull, tiresome, session, replete with wearisome discussions that usually ended at the starting point. The most important action, from the standpoint of the taxpayer, was the passage of the resolution granting the privilege to erect the band stand on the southeast corner of the High School lot. This question is settled at last; many hours discussion having occurred at previous sessions. There were but three dissenting votes to the proposition, Mason, Norton and Butternore presenting objections. Next in importance came the consideration of the $34,000 bond issue bids. Six bids were received. The board argued, and then argued some more, finally deciding to settle the matter at a special session next Thursday evening. The question of the State tax puzzled Director Darr and repeated explanations were necessary. Darr could not understand why the Board should exempt the purchasers from the State tax, although President Gallagher, Secretary Bert J. Thomas and Solicitor R. S. Matthews explained that this made the bond easier sold and at a better price. The bids for the issue were as follows: "Using," Seville, Company, $34,512.50; E. S. Wheeler, $34,284.20; J. S. & W. S. Kuhn, $34,332.50; N. V. Harris, $34,266.22; Western Reserve Investment Company, $34,186.10; Washington Investment Company, $34,156.10. A representative of the Kuhns said the bonds would be sold through his Chicago house, thereby exempting the Board from the State tax and saving $2,040 on the entire issue. The Board had never had to pay any State tax on any of its bonds yet, while exempting the purchaser in all of them. The matter was deferred until the Board meets whether it will be possible to identify the Board for any interest it might have to pay. The matter will come up Thursday. Principal Cobough of the High School made a report on the new two year commercial course which has exceeded all expectations. It was expected that about 20 would take advantage of the course and remain in school two years longer, instead of stopping after completing the grades. The enrollment yesterday was 22 in this department and then Cobough called a halt until he consulted with the Board. As the course is open to any student 16 years old or over and just entering the High School, all such applicants are to be enrolled. The department will probably run up to 25, in which event more typewriters and possibly another teacher will be needed. Just as Director Balsey put a motion to employ another teacher and get the typewriters, Director Darr burst forth shouting "feelings he held in check all evening and the motion was lost sight of. Darr wanted to know why the High School students should not run on full time instead of half, and why, to make room, the grade pupils at the Fourth Ward building, or as many rooms as necessary, should not be transferred to other buildings which have vacant rooms. He was supported by Balsey, Superintendent Deffenbaugh, said he would be willing for such an arrangement to be made providing the Board would shoulder the responsibility. Darr and Balsey voted for the motion but the other Directors didn't. It was lost. President Gallagher gave assurance that the present arrangement is only temporary and will not last more than five weeks. It took 25 minutes to read the back minutes after the Board convened and routine matters were at once taken up. The selection of Miss Emma Brady as an English teacher in High School was approved. She receives $89 a month, is a graduate of the University of Kentucky, and an experienced teacher. The Treasurer's report showed a balance of $3,093.44 in the treasury; $501.09 in the General Fund; $759.29 in the Sinking Fund; $1,123.61 in the Building Fund; and $1,202.64 in the Special High School Fund. His report also showed $87,350.61 being due from the tax collectors, as follows: Theodore White, 1504, $55.50; 1905, $227.78; 1907, $1,103.91; 1908, $452.46; 1909, $8, B. Brown, 1908, $1,078.11; 1909, $8, (Continued on Fifth Page.)

An Accidental Shooting Sunday; Little Boy Shot

Special to The Courier.

DUNBAR, Sept. 6.—Henry Hardy, son of Henry Hardy, Jr., who resides above the Furnace, was the cause of an accident last Sunday afternoon which may prove fatal. He was handling a Winchester rifle which was supposed to be empty when the gun went off, the bullet hitting his younger brother in the right breast. Dr. Warner was called at once and the boy being in no immediate danger the probing for the bullet was deferred for a few days on account of the child being so excited and being so nervous from the shock that he decided to probe for the bullet later.

Two Stories of Near Shooting On West Fairview Ave. Yesterday.

The colored residents of West Fairview avenue had excitement in plenty Sunday morning when Ella Smith is alleged to have taken a shot at Jim Ward, a member of Street Commissioner J. W. Stouffer's staff and leader of the colored political forces in the First Ward.

The affair is shrouded in mystery. Mrs. Smith denies she shot at Jim, while the big fellow is non-committal. It is said he made a hasty getaway after the affair that put him in a class by himself as a sprinter.

"No shoot at Jim Ward," asked Ella in great surprise this morning. "Why, man, I don't even know how to shoot a gun. I wouldn't know what to do with a gun if I had it in my hands."

Ella declined to explain how the neighbors heard the shot fired and would not admit knowledge of such an affair occurring. One of Ella's lady friends admitted there was a shooting scrape of some kind but declined to go into details. "That man was in bad and it wasn't Mrs. Smith's fault the trouble happened," said the friend. Questioned further she insisted that Ella should tell her own story.

Ella told it through the medium of a protestation of innocence which baffled all leading questions. "I don't know what happened," she said. "I don't know what happened."

SOCIETY.

Bryan-Crowley.
This morning at 10:30 o'clock in the parlor of the Hotel Royal the marriage of Miss Nellie "Lucille" Bryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bryan of Crawford Avenue, and Charles A. Crowley, son of Councilman and Mrs. Matthew Crowley of the West Side, was solemnized. The impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. C. M. Watson in the presence of only the relatives of the two families. To the sweet strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march rendered by Mr. Earle Ashcom, a cousin of the bride, the bride entered the parlor where the ceremony was performed before a banking of palms, nates and golden rods. During the ceremony the Flower Song was played by Mrs. Ashcom. The bride wore a lovely lace gown of white French lawn, and a large white veil trimmed with willow plumes. Her bridal bouquet was a shower of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her matron of honor, Mrs. J. W. Cogley, wore a yellow and white gown with hat to match and carried a large bouquet of white nates. Led with yellow ribbon, the bridegroom was attended by his brother, John Crowley, a best man.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom were seated in the large dining room where a handsomely appointed wedding breakfast was served. Yellow and white appointments prevailed in the decorations and the breakfast.

PERRY TEACHER RESIGNS FROM THE HIGH SCHOOL.

Miss Heckler, Assistant Instructor, Goes to the Bellevue High School.

Special to The Courier.

Perryopolis, Sept. 6.—Miss

Miss Heckler, the assistant instructor in the local High School, has resigned her position. Her resignation was presented to the Board on Friday evening. She left for Bellevue yesterday and will accept a much better position in the Bellevue schools. She received $70 per month here but will get $80 at Bellevue.

The public schools of Perry town ship opened yesterday for a seven months term. The total enrollment in Perryopolis was 225. This is a slight increase over last year's public school enrollment. The High School now has a total enrollment of 48. Calvin

Luker of Layton is principal and has charge of room No. 5; Miss Milner, room 4; Miss Ethel Byers, room 3; Miss Mary Carson, room 2;

Miss Kate Fretts, room 1.

Miss Kate Fretts, teacher of room

No. 1 of the graded school, will fill

Miss Heckler's position as assistant instructor in the High School until another assistant can be secured.

Miss Mary Duff, the supply teacher, will fill Miss Fretts' place in room

No. 1 of the grades. Miss Heckler's departure will cause her to be missed by scores of friends she has gained as a teacher since coming here in 1905. Her work was very satisfactory.

notes. But he wasn't 'easy' despite his financial recklessness.

His friends recently narrated an incident showing the man's shrewdness.

A man was asked 'how easy' they said, contracted with him for three part years for which he was to receive

$1,000. He got $500 advance before starting to work and when he turned in the second installment (none of it had been printed yet) got $200 more and asked for the third $300 as an advance before finishing the tale.

The editor in an effort to save money apparently declared that, after all, the story didn't appear. He worth more than $1,000—this when he had the two installments in his office.

"All right," said O. Henry; "I won't write the third one then." And he didn't. He laughed at the editor.

"Well, then," said the latter, "I'll run the two parts, and then let our readers have a guessing contest as to how the story ended and put up, perhaps, a $500 prize to the winner."

"For a moment the author thought he was outwitted. Then he said: "Go ahead, and I'll win the prize." He intended to win it too!—Boston Herald.

A WEIGHTY REASON.

It Told Why One of the Nineteen Commissions Was Executed.

Before a certain gentleman set out for Japan and India his relatives gave him a commission. One wanted an Indian shawl, another a silver Buddha, a third a chrysanthemum carving, and so on, till the list of commissions was appalling. He agreed, however, to fill them so far as possible.

But when he returned he had executed but one of the nineteen commissions.

He had brought back only the chrysanthemum carving. This he gave to one of his relatives. Why, the disappointed ones asked, had he executed that one particular commission and disregarded the rest?

The traveler smiled. "It happened," he began quietly, "that each of you had written your commission on a sheet of paper. On the second day of the voyage out I took all these sheets of paper from my notebook, opened them and spread them on my lap as I reclined in my stateroom.

"This was very still, at the time, but suddenly a brisk wind sprang up and every sheet was blown away except that of Cousin Max. Max's sheet was weighted down with the gold coin he had given me to pay for his carving."

Buy All the Time.

Little Howard came in the other day crying and rubbing several bumps caused by a series of "bumps" administered by a hot sheep.

"Well, Howard," said his sympathetic uncle, "what did you do when the sheep knocked you down for the first time?" "I didn't do anything. I was getting up all the time."—Dollinger.

taking the trunk, but said a man with whom he was talking told him to take

SAYS HUSBAND LED DUAL LIFE.

Lilly, Pa., Merchant is Sued
by Wife for Divorce.

STRANGE STORY IS RELATED

Allegations in Petition Filed by Mrs. Edward J. Hughes Involve Another Woman Not Hughes' Wife and Her Children.

Elmhurst, Pa., Sept. 6.—In a petition that became part of the court records of Cambria county, in which the wife of a wealthy merchant of Lilly asks for an injunction against him and a divorce from him and demands half of his property, estimated to be worth $100,000, a strange story is told of the alleged dual life of the man against whom the legal actions are directed.

The allegations involve another woman not his wife, and her children, and the exposure of his alleged duplicity is said to have come about through his bringing these children to his wife and asking her to raise them, after their mother, it is said, had become insane and was no longer able to care for them.

Mrs. Edward J. Hughes, through her attorney, John W. Koppert, asked the court for an injunction restraining her husband from disposing of any of his property, or the children, or from bringing them to his wife, and further she asked that she be given half of everything owned by her husband.

Hughes is a Lilly merchant and is declared to be worth in the neighborhood of $100,000. He has long borne a splendid reputation.

Odd Fellows of Somerset Co. Hold Reunion

Special to The Courier.

SOMERSET, Sept. 6.—The Odd Fellows of Somerset county celebrated Labor Day by holding their annual reunion and picnic at Edgewood, Pa. The attendance was large, and it is estimated that there were about 2,000 people who spent the day at the park.

At ten o'clock a monster parade formed at the court house and marched to the park. In the parade it is estimated that there were 1,000 Odd Fellows. About a dozen lodges were represented. There were six bands, Rockwood, Berlin, Stonybrook, Garrettsville, Confluence and Kilmont.

The amusements provided at the grove was a band contest, an exhibition drill by the degree team of the Windber Rebekah lodge and a band ball game between Somerset and Windber. Capt. Charles J. Harrison was chief marshal and had charge of the parade.

Gen. William H. Koonitz delivered the address of welcome, which was responded to by H. H. Hart of Harrisburg. The principal address of the day was delivered by the Rev. H. H. Hart of Harrisburg. Capt. Grand Master of the Order of Odd Fellows.

Many people aver that today's gathering was the most successful reunion or picnic held in Somerset this season.

BENEFIT DANCE
For Car Shop Team Will Be Held Saturday.

EVERETT, Sept. 6.—(Special.)—A dance for the benefit of the Everett Car Shop team will be held in the Tyrone hall Saturday evening. If the Philadelphia American league's cop the pennant Manager John Gordon will take his team on a several days' visit to the "sleepy village" and also take in the world's series.

The Car Shop lads have been playing championship ball all season and will make a bid for the annual championship of Fayette county. They have been defeated but twice this season.

A Tonic-Stimulant.

The active business man, the brain worker, the man of affairs, who could not stand the constant strain on their brain and nerves were it not for the timely use of a pure, gentle, invigorating tonic.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey
the standard of purity and excellence for over half a century, is one of the greatest tonic-stimulants and strength-givers known to science.

It has been extolled throughout the world for what it has done for suffering humanity. Its success in curing disease has caused many unscrupulous dealers to put up substitutes and imitations, which to fool the people, claiming that their substitutes are "just as good as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey," but they are thinking of their profits only. List on the label of the SEaled bottles only. All druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1.00 a large bottle. Medical booklet and doctor's advice free. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Final Cuts of the Season Are Named
On Every Bit of Linen Apparel in Our Stock.

First of all, let us tell you that this isn't a special purchase of questionable quality, secured at a concession because it wasn't worth any more. It's just our regular stock, sacrificed because our season is at an end and fall goods are clamoring for display room.

The desirability and worth of the suits, skirts, coats and dresses hasn't been lowered a particle, the only thing to suffer has been the price. But why say more, the following prices are stronger argument than any we could possibly advance.

THE DEVIL ON

THE HIGH MOUNTAIN.

William Harrison Berry, the thrifty and obliging gubernatorial candidate of the Keystone Party, is willing to take a few other nominations for the same office.

Following his old tactics, he is trying to kidnap the Prohibition nomination, but Madison F. Larkin, the nominee, refuses to vacate. Madison is consequently declared to be unreasonable by the Berry-pleaders. Madison is told that the Prohibition campaign committee can get $5,000 if he withdraws from the head of the ticket and permits Berry to be named in his stead, and with this money the Water Wagon can be cleared of its load of debt.

The situation calls forcibly to mind the story of a certain person of doubtful morals who took Jesus Christ upon a high mountain and made him a similar proposition. Satan had the nomination of the Lower Party and he wanted Christ to withdraw and hand him the Christian Party nomination.
The Devil wanted a clash.
If his scheme had worked, of course there wouldn't have been a Christian Party today, and there will not be any Prohibition Party afterwards if its places and its principles can be bought in the open market whenever they are needed to bolster the fortunes of a political adventurer.

ONE OF THE ## DESIRABLE TRUSTS.

The proposition of Fayette City, Hollersbach, Charleroi, Donora and Monaca to form a sewage disposal trust will probably not be seriously attacked by the Government. It is not a combination in restraint of trade, but a combination of interest for the public welfare.

Such combinations will serve to make more economical and effective our sewage disposal plans. If these towns find it profitable to combine in the construction of a single disposal plant sufficient to treat their sewage, Connellsville may effect a combination with South Connellsville, Dunbar, Dawson, Vanderbilt and possibly Perryopolis and Layton, with intervening villages, locating the disposal plant at the lowest drainage point.
Such a plant on the lower Yough might take care of the sewage of all these towns and of Scottdale and Mount Pleasant, also.
The sewage disposal problem is not yet actually upon us, but it is on its way, and we cannot hope to escape it.
It will, therefore, be the part of wisdom to consider well how best to meet it.

WESTERN MARYLAND

COAL DEVELOPMENTS.

The Western Maryland extension to Connellsville promises to develop additional coal fields, judging from the announcement that over its lines will be carried the West Virginia coal destined for Charles M. Schwab's by-product coke plant at South Bethlehem.

It is not all. It is stated that this railroad will build up an export trade in coal of no mean proportions. We are at present exporting some $24,000,000 of coal annually, and its increase is one of the plans of the Western Maryland. The success of this plan means a material increase in Western Maryland seaboard tonnage.

The plan is perfectly feasible, and it will not doubt its success. It means the development of a large amount of new coal territory either directly or through its Lago Erie connections.

The 1910 Football Season: Shall I let this fellow live?

The triumphant return of Paul Haines from a hunting trip in the Arctic Circle laden with the spoils of the chase from the eternal snows and ice of the Pole, and the recent homecoming of Chilesa Ivick from the equatorial regions of Africa with more evidence of successful jungle-hunting, then even Theodoros Africanus brought back, indicates that the sons of successful Connellsville cokes operators are as daring and successful in the hunt as their fathers were in the coke business. Neither could nor heat, nor distance nor danger, deter fathers or sons when they went hunting for big game.

The Abruzzi-Ellis affair is on again, and it is announced that the Duke will get $5,000,000 and the girl for his patience. To him who waits not everything comes, but sometimes much.

The live wire is too often a death-trap.

Speaking of newspapers for the people, The Courier yesterday contained approximately thirty-five columns of news matter and five columns

THE PENNSYLVANIA CAMPAIGN.

The Personal Popularity of John K. Tener—The Third Place Seems Reserved for the Third Party.
Republican Success Assured.

The Republican State campaign was formally opened in Charleroi last Saturday evening, but John K. Tener, Tener declined to make a political speech owing to the fact that the demonstration was so completely non-partisan and entirely neighborly that a political talk from him seemed out of place. He talked in a neighborly way to his neighbors and he was simply overwhelmed by the generous greeting accorded him. His home town was always glad to have Mr. Tener as a resident. His neighbors were always proud of his acquaintance and his business associates were always sustained and satisfied at having his help and counsel. All of these things without restraint in applauding his nomination for Governor, and all of them, without a single exception, united in making his campaign opening a brilliant success. Business places and homes, owned and managed by Democrats, were elaborately decorated, just as were the homes and business places owned and managed by Republicans, and all bore the significant motto: "His good enough for us." No candidate in recent times ever received from his home and neighbors a heartier indorsement, and the message sent by Charleroi to the people of the entire State must of necessity inspire the oper to an overwhelming victory.
From now up to and even after the November election the State will ring with applause for the Republican candidates and the principles they represent, and likely the most stirring campaign song will be that recent parody on "Has Anybody Here Seen Kellie?" which created wild enthusiasm at Charleroi at the campaign opening and which runs as follows:
A wise old soul is Father Tener
To keep things square and straight,
He picks the best of governors
To run the Keystone State
He gave us Edwin Stuart
And he thinks "tis in the wood"
To give us now another one That's every bit as good He'll land his man a winner.
If you ask the reason why,
He'll look you squarely in the face
And make you this reply:
CHORUS.
Has anybody here seen Tener?
Tener.
Has anybody here seen Tener, that Tener.
That famous Irish boy
He's six feet five without his shoes;
He's the kind of a lad you cannot lose.
Has anybody here seen Tener, Tener from Charleroi?

Lanier of the Cavalry

Or,
A Week's Arrest

Copyright, 1909, by J. B. Lippincott Company.

CHAPTER II.

THAT ended the dance, but not the excitement. Not yet mid-night, and in the space of less than one hour all Fort Cushing had been stirred by the news. A most popular and prominent young officer had been placed in close arrest. A prominent, if not most popular, sergeant had been punished. An alarming scene of some kind had occurred at the quarters of Captain Sumter. Mrs. Sumter had hurried away the minute she learned that her husband had gone. The colonel, sternly silent, led his wife to her door and there left her, saying he had summoned certain officers to join him at once, and she, who ruled him in all matters domestic almost as she managed the children, knew well that when roused he would brook no interference in matters professional, and Bob Lanier, a prime favorite of hers, had in some way managed to fall under the ban of his extreme displeasure.

At the office were presently assembled the colonel, the adjutant, the quartermaster, the post surgeon, and to them came Paymaster Scott. At the "store" were gathered half the commissioned officers. At Sumter's there kept coming and going a succession of sympathetic callers, who left even more mystified than when they arrived. Miriam had had a fight in the dark on their return home and screamed. Not Sumter thought Mrs. Sumter would need no help, yet he was so much obliged to the several who asked if they couldn't "do something."

Another house was virtually closed to question. To the disappointment of many and the disapprobation of a few, Bob Lanier had closed himself with his classmate and most intimate friend, "Doc" Ennis. Then, after a brief colloquy with Becker, the adjutant had caused a big card to be tacked on his door whereon was cravoned in bold black letters "Busy." But at quarter past 12 the assistant surgeon, Dr. Schuchardt, called, as was known, for the second time and entered without ceremony. When the officer of the day came tramping along the board walk at 12:30 and turned in at the gate, he struck the panel, with the blit of his saber, Ennis came to the door, but came with gloomy brow.

"I am ordered by Colonel Button to ask certain questions of Lieutenant Lanier," said the official.

"How's that, doc?" called Ennis over his massive shoulder. "Can your patient see the officer of the day?"

"Not yet, with my consent," came the stout answer.

"About your questions, captain," sang out the patient, with much too little humility of manner, yet Lanier knew Curbit well and knew his mission to be unwelcome.

"Is Trooper Rawdon in hiding anywhere about your quarters?"

"He is not, if I know it."

"Have you seen him to-night?"

An instant's pause then, "I don't know whether I have or not."

"You don't know?" exclaimed Curbit, puzzled and beginning to bristle.

"I don't know," repeated Lanier.

"Suppose the colonel wants me to explain that," said Curbit, but Dr. Schuchardt set his foot down summarily.

"Here," said he, "this thing's got to stop. Lanier's in a highly nervous and excited state. He doesn't know whom he has seen since he got home in arrest."

"Well, the old man wants to see that young Rawdon forthwith, for many people believe he's kidnapped."

"You can track anything but a ghost in this new fallen snow."

Curbit lowered his voice. "That's exactly the trouble, doctor. Go to the back of the quarters and see for yourself. His trail starts and ends here."

In all its history Fort Cushing had never known such a day of bewilderment as that which followed. Guard mounting was held as usual at 8 a. m., and Colonel Button, awaiting in his office the coming of the old and the new officers of the day, directed his adjutant to drop his own work at their entrance and give attention to what took place.

All eyes were on the two burly captains who entered at 8:30, fur capped, fur gloved, in huge overcoats and arctic. The wind had begun to whine and stir.

"Blizzard coming," said Scott as he glanced at the millen skies.

"I report as old officer of the day," said Curbit, with brief salute, tending the guard report book.

panies stationed at Fort Frayne, well up in the Indian country, and there they remained when the duty was over. Of the seven who came with Stowell, three belonged to Fort Frayne, a corporal and two men of Captain Raymond's troop, and they came fortified with the orders of their post commander, a copy of which was now in Becker's hands.

"What I don't understand," said the colonel, whirling his chair to the right about and addressing the paymaster, "is how or why those men should be down here."

"It seems simple," answered Scott placidly, he being entirely independent of the post commander. "From Frayne I had to go to the statements up along the Big Horn, and we doubled the size of the escort accordingly. When we got back there these three were permitted to come all the way, whether to buy Christmas things for the Frayne folk or for affairs of their own I didn't inquire."

"To whom did you assign them for rations and quarters?" demanded the colonel of Becker.

"Captain Sumter, sir, O troop."

"Are they there—the others, at least?"

"Corporal Watts and Trooper Ames are there, sir. Trooper Rawdon, as you know, is not. He has not been."

Just as the paymaster predicted, the wintry storm broke with the early afternoon. A genuine blizzard came shrieking down from the mountain pass to the northwest. Veterans drew requests laid off a stout squad in each troop and sent them with a sack load of rations to re-enforce the stable sergeant and grooms, there to stay to feed, guard and water the horses.

But the telegraph wires went with the first hour. The stage, of course, couldn't be helped to return from town, and so his getting news from the surrounding world was concerned. Fort Cushing might as well have been in Nova Zembla. And the Sumters, three, with Miriam Arnold, had set forth at noon, intending to intercept the eastbound express, and the colonel's spirit was flagging in sympathy with the storm and in spite of his wife, for some one had started a tale that Sumter and his household had ostensibly called upon Robert Ray Lanier in close arrest, in utter disfavor and infernal disgrace.

Now, within an officer in arrest may not quit his quarters under seven days and may not even thereafter visit his brother officers unless authorized, there is no regulation prohibiting other officers or their households visiting him. Nevertheless, they who publicly do so lay the matter liable to the imputation of sympathizing with the accused at the expense of the accuser.

And so resolved Colonel Button, a brave soldier, a gentleman at heart, a kind if crochety commander and a lenient man rather than a disciplinarian. A vain man was Button, and dearly he loved the adulation of his comrades, high or low. Veterans Irish sergeants knew well how to reach the soft side of "the old man." Artful troop commanders, like Sumter, saved themselves many a deserved winking by judicious use of blarney. Sterling, straightforward men, like Major Stenard, like Sumter, Raymond and Trooper Scott, of his captain—men who could not fawn and would not flatter—were never Button's intimates.

Button believed it of Sumter that he and his on the way to the railway station went in and condoled with Bob Lanier and doubtless vituperated him, the commander, when in point of fact no one of their number had seen or spoken with Bob.

Then came the storm and then a Sunday and Monday in which no man went either way between the fort and town. And then a third in which the gale vent down and the garrison dug itself out.

It was barely 6 o'clock. Guard mounting, the first held since Saturday, was just over. The morning reports, the first rendered since Saturday, were just in, and the staff and company officers for the first time since Saturday were beginning to gather at headquarters and to compare notes. All had much to tell. Stenard's wood-pile, Sumter's storm shed and Barker's cow had blown away. Somebody had just reported Sumter's north dormer window "torn out by the roots," which would button to say to Sumter, who had returned:

"I hope your quarters sustained no damage in your absence."

"I do not know, sir. I came direct to the office to report."

"Ah, true. Your household started before the storm."

"Only started, sir. They went no farther than the surgeon's quarters, where we found the train was six hours late. I had business—in town, and went on. They remained."

"Then the ladies have not gone east?"

"Neither they nor any one else since early Saturday morning. The road is blocked."

"The paymaster too? He went in right after luncheon."

"I cannot say, sir."

The captain withdrew.

"Can I have a sergeant and twenty men at once, sir, armed and mounted?" cried Quartermaster Horton, hurrying in. "The ambulance with the pay-—as Mr. Lanier's troop commander and personal friend, I beg leave to say that, so far as I know, his offense is one which his comrades have often committed without rebuke."

"Which simply goes to show, sir," responded the colonel, with glittering eyes, "that you do not know the twentieth part of his offense."

"If that be true, Colonel Button, of course I cannot think of going. I withdraw my application." And, turning slowly, he left the office.

Instead of carrying three enlisted men present as "casually at post," the "return" of Troop O had but two. Trooper Rawdon whose horse, horse equipments and gelding were safely stored in the troop stables since the previous day, was himself accounted for nowhere. In view of the fact that he had not been seen and could not be found there was nothing remarkable about that. With the morning report book, however, there was handed in a copy of an order duly submitted by Corporal Watts to Sumter's first sergeant, and by him to his captain, which read in part as follows:

"On arriving with his detachment at Fort Cushing and in compliance with the telegraphic instructions from department headquarters, Trooper O. P. Rawdon, Troop O, cavalry, is granted thirty days' furlough, at the expiration of which he will report to the commanding officer of Fort Cushing for transportation to his proper station."

Just as the paymaster predicted, the wintry storm broke with the early afternoon. A genuine blizzard came shrieking down from the mountain pass to the northwest. Veterans drew requests laid off a stout squad in each troop and sent them with a sack load of rations to re-enforce the stable sergeant and grooms, there to stay to feed, guard and water the horses.

FIGHTING BOB OPPOSES MAINE'S LIQUOR LAWS.

ADMIRAL EVANS

BAR HARBOR, Me., Sept. 6.—The situation made by the Admiral Robert D. Evans, retired, before he left this port for Washington relative to Maine's prohibition laws has caused quite a stir. "Fighting Bob" spent much of the summer here visiting relatives, and his comment on liquor selling is not particularly pleasing. "I am somewhat reluctant to say anything about the laws of States other than my own without first making a thorough investigation and inquiry, but I will say this honestly and fearlessly and as one who is sure of his grounds: I have had more trouble in the direction of my sailors getting drunk in the ports of Maine than I have had with my men while at any other port in the world. I would rather take my men anywhere in the world than bring them to Maine. I know that my men on shore liberty would easily find the most impossible and abhorrent lives and there obtain their obnoxious concoctions worse, much worse, than liquor. It made them not so much drunk as crazy."

master never reached town."

"Order them out at once, Mr. Barker," was Button's instant answer, turning to his adjutant, who went out like a shot. "What time did they start?"

"About 2. Saturday afternoon. It was blowing a gale then and the snow so thick we lost sight of them within a hundred yards. Major Scott declined an escort; said he and the clerk and the two men inside would make the most impossible and abhorrent lives and there obtain their obnoxious concoctions worse, much worse, than liquor. It made them not so much drunk as crazy."

"How did you learn they hadn't reached town?" demanded Button.

"Sergeant Fitzroy just came out. He'd been in there with Sergeant Stojell to help find Rawdon, he said. Major Scott had a section engaged in the Pullman for Omaha, and Fitzroy says he never claimed it—says he searched every stable for the ambulance, but there was no sign of it, and he says there was a gang of half a dozen toughs that had been hanging about town for a week, and they've cleared out. I'd like to go and get into riding rig, sir."

"Go, and I'll have a troop out after you if you need be." Then, turning to his adjutant, "Barker, have Sergeant Fitzroy sent for at once."

At the state fair grounds the president made an attempt to conciliate the labor unions. He was blunt when he talked about class legislation; he was opposed to it.

"But there is a kind of legislation," he said, "to which I would refer that does come under the head of a vicious class legislation. A number of statutes have been passed in the states against combinations or conspiracies to restrain trade, to suppress competition or to maintain prices; and there has been sometimes an attempt to insert in such statutes a proviso or section exempting farmers or other classes from the operation of the statutes, so as to enable the exempt classes to corner products and raise prices while no other class in the community can do so."

"The supreme court has held that such a law gives undue privilege to a particular class in the community, creates an unjust exemption from the operation of a useful law, denies the equal protection of the laws, violates the constitution, and is invalid."

Dog Dying of Broken Heart.

Phoenixville, Pa., Sept. 6.—Grieving over the loss of his master, a big Dutch dachshund belonging to the late Jacob F. Wall, proprietor of the Phoenix hotel, is dying of a broken heart. Many times the dog visits the rooms of the hotel, barking at the door of those which are closed and following this, turns to the hotel stables, the local race track and the home of the dead man's mother. The animal is rarely seen to eat, and has grown thin since his master died.

Smith Family Reunion.

Hamilton, O. Sept. 6.—The Butler county family of the name of Smith who trace their ancestors back to the original Captain John Smith, whose little love affair with Pocahontas, the Indian maid, was the stellar piece in the third reader, had their first reunion at the home of James W. Smith of Riley township.

TAFT'S SPEECH WELL RECEIVED.

Hits Conservation Nail on the Head, Say Critics.

GIVES ADMINISTRATION VIEWS

Tells Delegates at St. Paul Congress Question of Conservation Must Be Kept Out of Politics—In One Instance the President's Sidesteps.

St. Paul, Sept. 6.—Ten thousand persons heard President Taft speak at the Auditorium, 25,000 more at the state fair grounds gave their approval of the chief executive by cheers and the waving of flags and scores of thousands of others lined the pavement over which Mr. Taft whirled.

In the hotel lobbies where the politicians congregate the verdict was, "He made a great speech, at the conservation congress." Some went as far as to say it was the best speech the most comprehensive, the most "straight from the shoulder" talk that he has ever made.

The shadow of Mr. Roosevelt, who comes to talk to the conservators today, did not stalk before. Mr. Taft praised him freely, frequently and in unstinted terms.

To the conservators the president laid down the administration policy. He set it out unequivocally, praising the work of his predecessor whom he thought it ought to be praised and damning some of the conservation policies of the colonel's administration in the next sentence.

Not Political Question.

"Conservation is not a question of politics," he said, "or of factions or persons. It is a question that affects the vital welfare of all of us—of our children and our children's children."

Discussing the Alaska situation, which brought on the Ballinger-Winchot dispute, the president, in his speech, recommended that the lands in question be leased and not sold outright.

Declaring that the calling of attention to national waste had become a necessity, he paid a tribute to ex-president Roosevelt, saying: "Theodore Roosevelt took up the task in the last two years of his second administration and well did he perform it."

Mr. Taft dodged once. He left to congress the decision of the question as to whether or not "waterpower sites shall be controlled by the general government or by the state government."

"I do not," said the president, "express an opinion on the controversy thus made as to the methods of treating waterpower sites. I shall submit the matter to congress and urge that one of the two plans be adopted."

Westerners Disagree.

On this paragraph the west, as represented here by thousands of delegates to the congress, disagreed. To the opinion of most of those who would talk, Mr. Taft sidestepped the most important question that will come up for settlement by congress at the next session.

The administration's attitude, toward legislation for conservation was revealed to them.

"We have made wonderful progress and at the same time have preserved with judicial exactness the restrictions of the constitution. There is an easy way in which the constitution can be violated by congress without judicial prohibition, to wit, by appropriations from the national treasury for unconstitutional purposes. It will be a sorry day for this country if the time ever comes when our fundamental compact shall be habitually disregarded in this manner."

Talks to Labor Unions.

At the state fair grounds the president made an attempt to conciliate the labor unions. He was blunt when he talked about class legislation; he was opposed to it.

"But there is a kind of legislation," he said, "to which I would refer that does come under the head of a vicious class legislation. A number of statutes have been passed in the states against combinations or conspiracies to restrain trade, to suppress competition or to maintain prices; and there has been sometimes an attempt to insert in such statutes a proviso or section exempting farmers or other classes from the operation of the statutes, so as to enable the exempt classes to corner products and raise prices while no other class in the community can do so."

"The supreme court has held that such a law gives undue privilege to a particular class in the community, creates an unjust exemption from the operation of a useful law, denies the equal protection of the laws, violates the constitution, and is invalid."

Dog Dying of Broken Heart.

Phoenixville, Pa., Sept. 6.—Grieving over the loss of his master, a big Dutch dachshund belonging to the late Jacob F. Wall, proprietor of the Phoenix hotel, is dying of a broken heart. Many times the dog visits the rooms of the hotel, barking at the door of those which are closed and following this, turns to the hotel stables, the local race track and the home of the dead man's mother. The animal is rarely seen to eat, and has grown thin since his master died.

Smith Family Reunion.

Hamilton, O. Sept. 6.—The Butler county family of the name of Smith who trace their ancestors back to the original Captain John Smith, whose little love affair with Pocahontas, the Indian maid, was the stellar piece in the third reader, had their first reunion at the home of James W. Smith of Riley township.

ONE DOSE ENDS INDIGESTION, GAS, DYSPEPSIA OR A SICK STOMACH.

A little Diapepsin will promptly regulate any bad Stomach.

Why not get some now—this moment, and forever rid yourself of Stomach trouble and indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues; and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Page's Diapepsin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of Gas or eruptions of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and Dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Page's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will relieve the most obstinate case of indigestion and upset stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take Gas from Stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and besides, one single dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do.

When Diapepsin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all Stomach Misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to take a little Diapepsin. Tell your druggist that you want Page's Diapepsin, because you want to become thoroughly cured this time.

Remember, if your stomach feels out of order and uncomfortable now, you can get relief in five minutes.

PRELIMINARIES ADJUSTED

It is Said Between Abruzzi and Miss Catherine Elkins.

Paris, Sept. 6.—The date for the wedding of Miss Katherine Elkins and the Duke of the Abruzzi has been fixed for the latter part of February of next year, according to reports in circulation here, which seem to be absolutely reliable. It is stated that the date was decided upon after a consultation between the prospective bridegroom and his brother, the Duke of Aosta.

Within ten days the Duke of the Abruzzi will pay a visit to the Elkins family here and at that time arrangements will be made for the presentation of the senator's family to the Italian royal household. In order to avoid newspaper publicity as much as possible, the presentation will take place at some obscure town in Italy and the date will be kept a secret until after the ceremonies.

It is understood that before her marriage Miss Elkins will have conferred upon her the title of Countess of Teramo, in honor of one of the largest towns in the Abruzzi district.

The statement is made at the same time that Miss Elkins will become a member of the Roman Catholic church and already plans for her instruction in that faith have been made. Her religious instructor will be Mr. Baccarini.

It is announced the financial end of the matter has been satisfactorily settled as far as both parties are concerned. The marriage portion will be $500,000, which is not considered an extraordinary amount here, in view of the rank of the prospective bridegroom and the wealth of Senator Elkins.

The Italian embassy here said they were unable to confirm but that they would not deny that the wedding was to take place.

VERMONT ELECTION.

Will Be Watched With Much Interest in Country Today.

Montpelier, Vt., Sept. 6.—Vermont is today casting ballots for a governor, other state officers, two congressmen and a state legislature, which will probably re-elect a United States senator.

It is quite certain the eyes of the political world are on the Green mountain state today; especially are Republicans interested. Vermont has had a habit the past half century of going Republican by margins ranging from 14,000 to 35,000, and the question which the state is expected to answer today is whether an old-time plurality will be rolled up for the G. O. P.

The state election in Vermont has gained the reputation of being something of a political barometer and the size of the Republican majority is generally supposed to give some line on the sentiment in the country at large.

EXTRAVAGANCE IS KILLING

Present Unrest Due to Common Lack of Economy, Says Cardinal.

Baltimore, Sept. 6.—Cardinal Gibbons, who left here today to attend the Eucharistic congress at Montreal, declared in an interview that much of the existing unrest throughout the United States which is hampering the progress of the country at the present time is due to the too common lack of economy by the present generation and the desire for too many luxuries and extravagances.

"The people believe," he said, "that they must have autos, must go to the theaters, must have various kinds of amusements, without which their fathers and grandfathers got along well enough and prospered. This desire prevents a sensible conservation of the people's resources."

SIXTY YEARS OLD, TOO!

St. Louis, Sept. 6.—Mrs. Andrew Brandenburg, sixty years old and weighing 170 pounds, swam five miles in the height of a heavy rainstorm.

She was unassisted, being accompanied by only a rowboat and motorboat. John C. Meyers, a noted swimmer of this city, declared the swim the most remarkable he ever saw, considering Mrs. Brandenburg's advanced age.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE MAN.

Gov. Brooks of Wyoming, Strong Advocate of Suffrage Movement.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 6.—Governor B. B. Brooks of Wyoming is a woman suffragist because women suffrage is as natural to him as breathing. He grew up in its atmosphere, was elected to office under it and heartily approves it. He confesses to a mild wonder that any other state should be without it.

"It is so much a matter of course with me that I never think of discussing it," said the governor. "I have never heard any man in our section point out any flaws in the system. It works perfectly with us, we all approve it, we see its good results and we wouldn't know how to get along without it."

Churchill Wounded in Leg.

Manchester, England, Sept. 6.—A dispatch from Smyrna to the Guardian says Winston Churchill, the home secretary, was accidentally wounded in the leg. He was operated upon at the English hospital in Smyrna, and is doing well. The injury is not serious.

By Albert Robbins.
OWENSDALE, Sept. 6.—The fond dream of remembrance was no more cruelly shattered than Charles Frank's reverie of stealing away the heart of John Halley's gallant wife, when the Central Valley leaders last evening, Morgan won 4 to 3.

The game in itself was a poor exhibition of baseball as it was utterly impossible for anyone to handle the spaulding as a shiny coat of mud covered the diamond and for anyone to star in the game would have been an unrecorded chapter of history. The score by innings:

First Inning.
Horne awarded King a free four to first. King then kidnapped the next flag station while Robbins was trying a half Nelson grip on the muddy sphere. Barrio was safe at first while King was thrown out at third on a relay of Robbins' passed ball. Gotsie dumped a roller into P. Pruey's stable man, Barrio advancing to third. Doorley bumped into the pill for a safety to left and Barrio crossed the platter. F. Jones tapped to short and Doorley expired at second.

Finerty tossed four balls toward Dunbar and fired four more hot shots over Shulsky and to cap the climax walked little Johnny Byrne, killing the pillows. By a series of word heaves around the pillows by Leisenring, Pruey and Shulsky answered the supper bell, the ground rules holding Byrne on third. If King died on an infield tap. Thomas expired, Westenberg to King. Leo Kling sent a Texas leucator over second scoring Byrne and took second on Doorley's passed ball. Finerty banged Halley in the slats. O'Laughlin pulled in Robbins' fly.

Second Inning.
Pruey eloped with a part of Westenberg's beauty. Sam Jones, Tad's hero, lifted the ball to short center. Finerty rolled to Horne who retired Sammy at second. Finerty was safe. O'Laughlin almost displaced one of Jupiter's satellites. Horne batted zephyrs, Pruey died, Westenberg to King. Shulsky lammed the ozone.

Third Inning.
King planted one of Horne's shoots in right garden. Barrio was too vain with Horne's symmetrical heaves and died a victim of vanity. Gotsie got first pillow on Robbins' pass of his third attempt to connect. King racing home was thrown out a yard by Horne but Shelly called him safe. Mistaken fall to the lot of all men. Doorley buried a wireless message waiting in the upper air currents. Gotsie was thrown out at second. Barrio rolled out to King. If King lifted the pill almost as high as gas rates, the ball landing in deep left. Thomas lammed the sphere over second and King was thrown out at third. Thomas pushed the landscape back to him at a 150 yard to second while Doorley was proposing to the ball. L. Kling hammered the ball to center scoring Thomas. Leo went to second. Halley did the electric fan stunt.

Fourth Inning.
F. Jones hit to short right and abounded with the second pillow. Westenberg struck out. Jones took third on a passed ball. Sam Jones lammed the ultra-violent rays. Finerty died on the Horne-Pruey route.

Robbins lammed the atmosphere. Horne died at first attempting to succor. Pruey rolled out to first.

Fifth Inning.
O'Laughlin banged to right. King expired at first advancing the runner. Barrio struck out. Gotsie lammed the pill over short, scoring O'Laughlin. Gotsie died at second trying to steal. Shulsky hammered one of Finerty's shoots to center, and paroled second then took third on a passed ball. Finerty signed Byrd's pass. Byrne swiped second. Finerty pulled himself out of a bad hole by fanning the next three men up.

Sixth Inning.
In agreement this inning was to end the game as it was getting too dark to play. Doorley was captured by Thomas and Pruey. F. Jones was the plaintiff of the O. H. S. late poets by hammering the lining out of the silver cloud. Pandemonium reigned supreme when Leisenring's god of good luck was shattered by Westenberg dumping the pill into Halley's caressing hands. The score:

Notes of the Game.
--------------------	--

Several of Morgan's baseball fans had heart trouble when O'Laughlin scored Leisenring's third tally in the fifth.
---	--

Finerty walked three in the first and another later on while Horne gave only one pass. Finerty was batted for five safeties while Horne allowed six. Horne struck out nine and Finerty eight.
---	--

The muddy ball caused no end of trouble to the batters.
---	--

Shelly's awestruck Leisenring one run brought a howl from Morgan; otherwise his work was above par. It was a misjudgment of the play.
---	--

Considering the condition of the sphere both Doorley and Robbins put up a good game.
--	--

Horne slipped and fell in the fourth and missed a pretty tip fly of which he could have made a neat double.
---	--

"Don't be so long, Halley," piped a fair Morgan maid. "Can't you see I'm a little short guy," he retorted.
--	--

Bunched hits and costly errors were the chief cause of Leisenring's stinging defeat. Both teams were badly off color.
---	--

If you never attended a Fourth of July celebration just go to Morgan immediately after they win a game and watch the fair fans torment the visiting team.
---	--

King, of Scottsdale, played a nice game at first for Leisenring. Doorley is another Scottsdale hickory woldor.
--	--

But, 3; Blitzer, 0.
---------------------	--

The winning streak of the fast Blitzer team was brought to a sudden halt on the home grounds yesterday afternoon when the apparently inferior and hapless Butte aggregation put it all over "Speaky" Means and his tribe. The final score was 3 to 0 in Butte's favor. The pitchers cut a big figure in the contest. Illness of Butte got under way with one of his splendid games. He was an outgrowth from the first inning to the last and but a single hit was made off his delivery.
---	--

Ball pitched good enough ball to win for Blitzer but the men behind him did not contribute a sufficiently aggressive offense.

Perry Wins Two From Fairhope; Good Games

Special to The Courier.
-------------------------	--

PERRYVILLE, Sept. 6.—Perryville A. C. and Fairhope A. C., two bitter rivals for diamond honors met at the field of conflict at Lauro's park yesterday to play two games in celebration of Labor Day. A large attendance was observed when the first game was called at 2:30 which consistently swelled until the beginning of the second game at 4:30. A conservative estimate would place the attendance at 250. The first game was the most exciting. "Faddy" Carson was in the box and was the controlling power for the locals. Nine innings were played without a score but in the tenth the locals scored one run giving them the game.

In the second game things were much changed. Buttermore with splendid control took the box for Perry while Manager Heltterbrant played second, Kammer first and Shady of Leisenring's team on third. "Junk" McKee caught both games for our own and played clean baseball.
--	--

The second game was finished in nine innings with Perry in the lead 7 to 6, and a great cheer went up in honor of the hard fought victory. Miller for Fairhope and Kennour for Perry were the umpires.

Remarkably Pretty Glassware Low Priced.

Unlike most glass this new assortment is perfectly finished and has a beautiful lustre. 1910-11 shapes are unusual and probably have not been seen elsewhere in Connellsville. The conveniently arranged and classified samples are displayed in the section of the basement devoted to handsome wares. Besides the Colonial styles are shapes entirely different; classically designed, compact, dignified.
